Tech Support Scams

People in the 785 area code have been reporting phone calls allegedly from PC Solutions or similarly named companies. Calls have come from 860-885-5399 and restricted numbers.

Various techniques are being used, but it seems that the goal is to get you to visit a web site and give the caller remote access to your computer. The scammers speak English very well, sound intelligent, and are quite pleasant. They use a barrage technical terms, probably in an effort to confuse people. Here are some of the opening lines the scammers have used.

Your computer has a Trojan, and I can help you fix it.

Your computer is showing 30-40% utilization in Task Manager.

The backup service on your computer isn't running.

I want to show you how to make your computer run better.

Has your computer been running slow? I can help.

These calls are definitely part of a scam. Don't let them scare you with technobabble and terms you don't understand. You should never allow a stranger to have remote access to your computer, especially in response to an unsolicited phone call. A person with remote access could install malware, viruses, or other nasty software. They could steal any files you have on your computer (pictures, tax returns, etc.). They could talk you into paying for a service or software you don't really need.

If someone wants remote access to your FHSU-provided computer, make sure they work for TigerTech or Tech Services. We will always call from an FHSU number (they all start with 785-628...). To make sure you're really speaking with someone from FHSU, get the person's name, hang up, call TigerTech at 785-628-3478, and ask for the person by name.

If you're having trouble with or have questions about your personal computer, find a tech support company that you can trust. Remember that scammers will sometimes advertise online, trying to get you to call them. Use local yellow pages to find a tech support company, or look for companies with a physical location near you. Ask friends, relatives, or co-workers for recommendations. TigerTech also keeps a list of tech support companies in Hays.

If you allowed a scammer to have remote access to your computer, you need to get it checked out. Call TigerTech if it's an FHSU-provided computer, or call a reputable tech support company if it's a personal computer. Don't be afraid to admit you fell for a scam. These people are very convincing! It's better to admit your mistake so someone can help you fix it, than to have malicious software living on your computer.

Feel free to share this information with friends and relatives, especially people who are not very computer-savvy. The scammers are targeting people all over the area, not just FHSU people.

You can read more about tech support scams on the Federal Trade Commission web site.

New Student Information from TigerTech

Perhaps you get questions from new students (and parents) about Office 365, what computers to buy, their email access or when their Blackboard courses are available?

With welcoming students to our campus during pre-enrollment (and virtually), TigerTech wants to remind all faculty and staff of the technology resource page for New Students on how they can get prepared for their time at FHSU! Please view and bookmark the quick summary we provide on this page. We communicate this message to all newly admitted students regarding technology services and the support we offer. It is featured in the Student Success Planner and the link can be shared anytime (a PDF version is available, too.) Thank you for helping send consistent, positive information to our students!
